

2019 Four Corners Research Field School Application

Two 2019 Field School Sessions At Champagne Spring

- When:       August 16-19, 2019 (Check the box if you want to attend this session)
- August 23-26, 2019 (Check the box if you want to attend this session)

Cost:        $95.00 per person/session

This will be the first time we return to Champagne Spring since the 2013. We'll be working on the South Ridge group for the first time since 2005. Very few excavations have occurred on this part of the site. The South Ridge has a far different layout than the North Ridge where past excavations were focused around the great kiva. The 2019 excavations will investigate several unit pueblos, large pit structures and a prehistoric road segment. Training will focus on archaeological field techniques, pottery analysis, artifact processing and analysis, and field documentation. The town of Dove Creek is only seven miles from Champagne and there is a motel, a few restaurants, and a grocery store there. Camping on-site is free. There are no plugs for electricity although we will provide portable toilets and potable water. An evening lecture and show-and-tell sessions are planned and we'll have a prehistoric pottery learning session that will provide information about the local ceramics.

Participants need to supply their own food, equipment (trowel, gloves, hat, sturdy shoes) and transportation.
